

6 of Cups Rx (Reversed)

17 Published August 31, 2011 | 🧑 By Dale

When I turned over this card today I thought "I'm going to feel sorry about something today". Well, it's the end of the day and I've discovered what I feel sorry about. Some people at work that I care about are leaving. They did not chose this, it was chosen for them. Work people are always a part of extended family, and when they leave they take a piece of you with them. This card is about family, children, nostalgia. Reversed, I see it as a part of life that is changing, and regardless of the players, can never truly be created again. They say you "can't go back" and I've learned that this is true. I was rehired by the same company once, but it was never the same. Yes, it became good – but it was different. So stop and smell the roses, together, while you still can.